

History

The Maya Civilisation

Maya Food

twinkl

Aim

- I can describe a range of foods that were eaten by the ancient Maya people and explain why certain foods were particularly significant.

Success Criteria

- I can create a list of foods that the ancient Maya people would have eaten.
- I can describe why corn is significant and precious to the ancient Maya people.
- I can describe why chocolate is significant and precious to the ancient Maya people.

Maya Food Anagrams

Use the clues on the Maya Food Anagrams Activity Sheet to help you work out the anagrams for the Maya foods.

Think about how and why these foods could have been eaten.

Be ready to give feedback about your ideas to the rest of the class.

eynoh

qshaus

senab

kutrye

ocaca

hilicl
rppeeps

rnco or ezami

erde

Food Anagrams Answers

honey

squash

beans

turkey

cacao

chilli peppers

corn or maize

deer

Other Maya Foods

Maize or corn was the main food of the Maya people and made up to 80% of their diet. Examples of other foods eaten include:

avocado

cassava

chilli peppers

cacao

honey

jicama

maize

papaya

pumpkins

squash

sweet potato

tomatoes

Fact

They would plant beans next to the maize so that the vines would wrap around the growing maize stalks.

Fact

The Maya people ate out of bowls made of pottery.

Maya Food Inventory

Can you create your own inventory of Maya foods?

For each item you include, you should provide:

- The name of the food.
- A picture or drawing of the food.
- Details of how the Maya people may have prepared and eaten the food.

Make your inventory bright, colourful and informative and ensure that you include a range of foods.

Maize

Maize was a very important crop, and formed up to 80% of their diet.

To plant the maize, holes would be made in the soil with a sharp bladed, wooden digging stick called a dibble. The soil was very dry and if the May rains didn't come, a whole year's crop would be lost.

For thousands of years, the Maya worshipped the maize god. They believed that the first humans were made by the gods from maize dough! Because of this, when suffering from severe illness, they would eat nothing but corn.

Maya farmers would plant maize wherever they could. Maize is more commonly known as corn.

Marvellous Maize!

Discuss the following questions with your partner:

1. How was maize grown?
2. Why do you think maize was so important to the Maya people?

Share your ideas with the others on your table, then be ready to give feedback to the rest of the class too.

Chocaholics!

Cacao trees sprout cacao pods directly from their trunks. The pods are then opened to reveal the cacao beans inside. The Maya were using these beans to make a chocolatey drink from as far back as the fourth century AD. However, it was not the sweet, chocolately flavour we crave today, but a more bitter tasting version, often laced with chilli or vanilla and other spices.

The drink was enjoyed by the rich and noble members of society, and the cacao beans were highly valued. They were even used as a form of currency later on in Maya history.

The Maya word for chocolate is Kakaw.

The Maya used chocolate in religious ceremonies, and they also mixed them with herbs to make medicines.

Cool Cacao

Discuss the following questions with your partner:

1. How do cacao beans grow?
2. Why do you think cacao was so important to the Maya people?

Share your ideas with the others on your table, then be ready to give feedback to the rest of the class too.

